

Our energies for a Better Life

Defence

Bouygues Energies & Services has been providing specialist design, build and maintenance solutions to the defence sector for several decades, earning a reputation for excellence and supporting both public and private sector clients.

Working in live, high-security, critical operational environments [1] in partnership with our world-class clients has become second nature to us. We have developed an eye for detail and continuous improvement of our defence workplace delivery methodologies - through careful and detailed planning and execution.

With a long tradition of delivering defence contracts to quality, cost and budget, our in-house multi-disciplinary design and delivery teams can be mobilised with precision to meet clients' individual needs.
